

EDUCATING THE WHOLE LAWYER

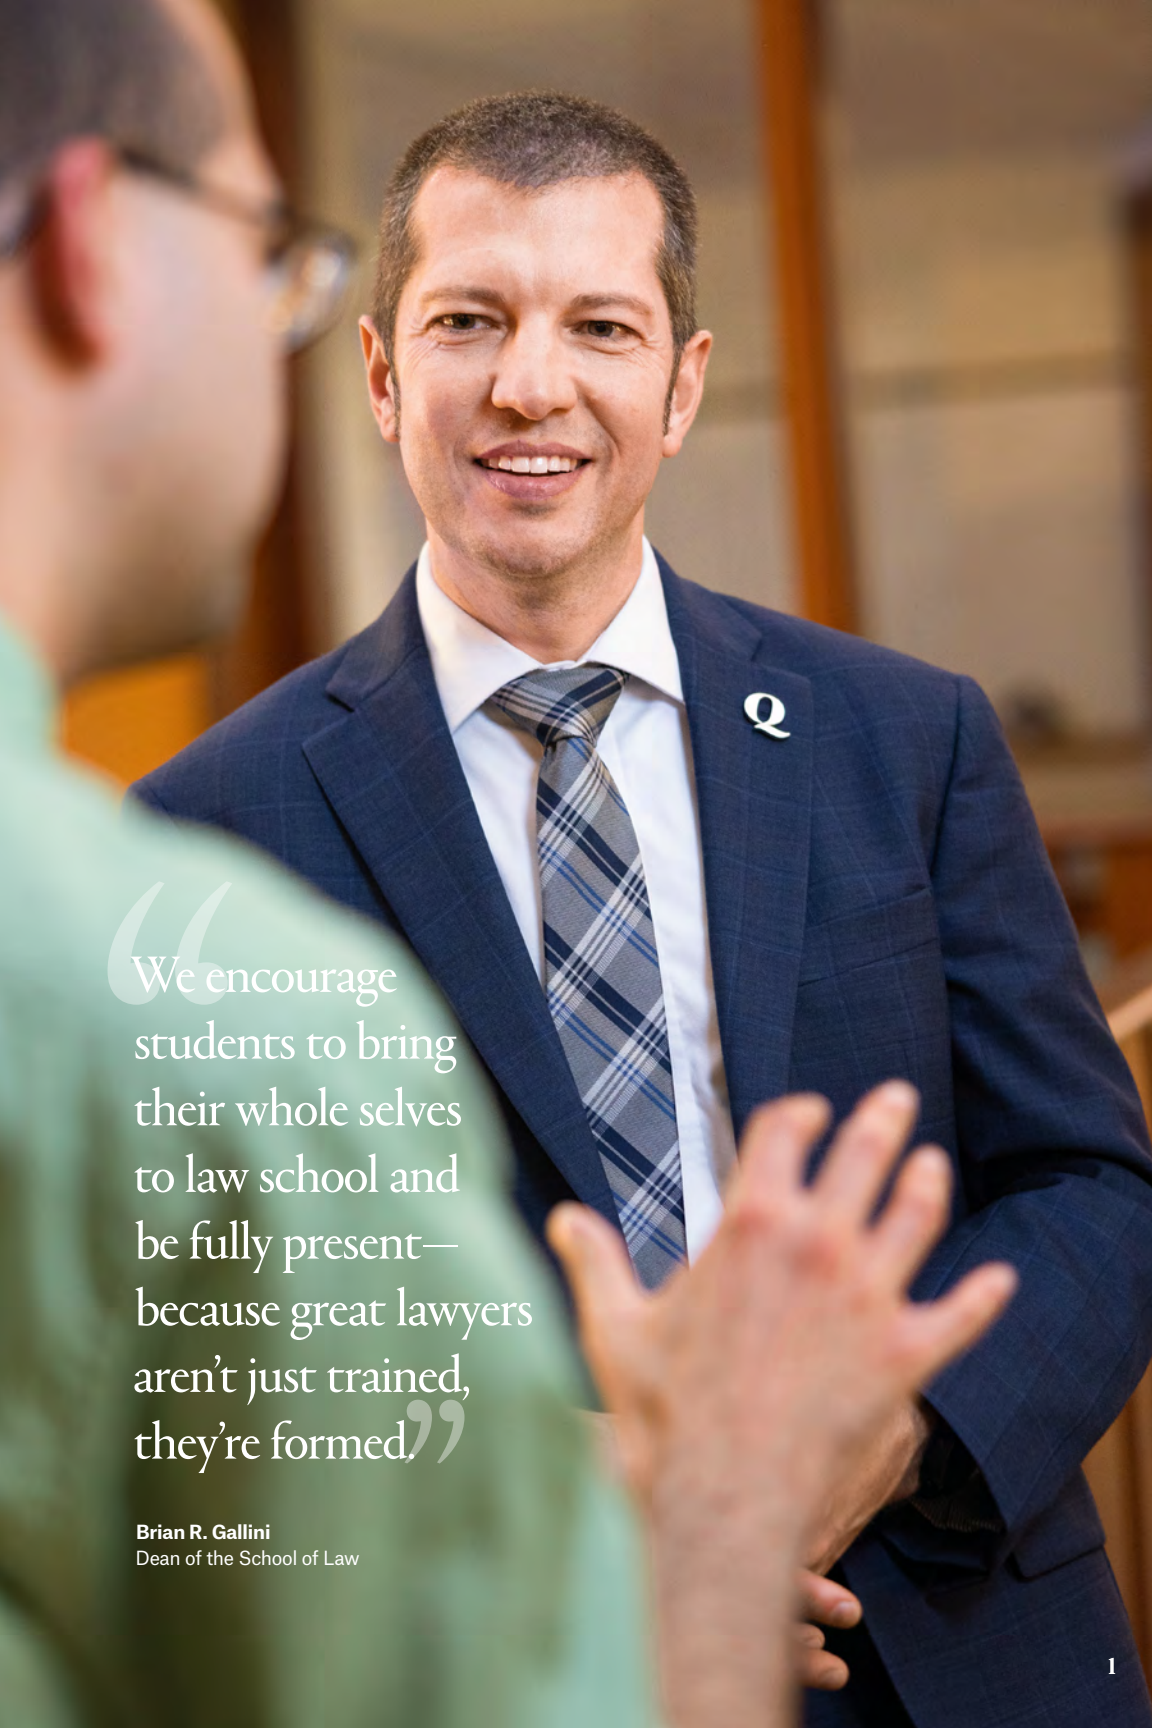

Quinnipiac / Law
UNIVERSITY

Educating the Whole Lawyer

At Quinnipiac Law, we are more than just students and faculty. Our halls are filled with entrepreneurs, world travelers, part-time workers, parents, artists, immigrants, veterans, first-generation students, aspiring politicians, and more. We bring these diverse aspects of ourselves to the study and practice of law, cultivating skilled legal practitioners who retain their personal values and authentic sense of self—what we call whole lawyers.

Whole lawyers lead with integrity and stay rooted in their values. They blend rigorous legal training with lived experience to serve clients with authenticity and create a lasting impact.

A photograph of Brian R. Gallini, Dean of the School of Law, smiling and gesturing with his hands while talking to a student. He is wearing a dark blue suit, a white shirt, and a blue and grey plaid tie. A small white 'Q' pin is visible on his lapel. The background is blurred, showing a wooden wall and a bookshelf.

“We encourage students to bring their whole selves to law school and be fully present—because great lawyers aren’t just trained, they’re formed.”

Brian R. Gallini
Dean of the School of Law

Great Lawyers Ask Great Questions

Q: What makes

Sebastian Fox '27, president of the Mock Trial Society, discusses strategy in the ceremonial courtroom.

A young man with dark, curly hair, wearing a grey suit jacket, a striped shirt, and a red patterned tie, is looking upwards and to the right with a thoughtful expression. He is holding a black pen in his right hand. The background is a blurred indoor setting with wooden paneling and a blue light fixture.

a great lawyer?

A: Integrity. Skill. Impact.

This book explores how those qualities come to life at Quinnipiac Law. Through the experiences of our students, alumni, and faculty, you'll see how legal education extends beyond the classroom—shaping not just what our students know, but who they become. From hands-on learning to a deeply supportive community, this is what it means to educate the whole lawyer.

Q: How can one

Brianna Logan '27, note editor of the Health Law Journal, prepares for class in the ceremonial courtroom.

room launch my career?

A: By turning theory into practice.

Like many spaces on campus, the Brooke A. Goff Courtroom is more than just a beautiful setting—it's a hub for experiential learning. It also stands as a powerful symbol of what sets a Quinnipiac Law education apart. Each element of the courtroom is designed to give you the practical experience that will launch and sustain your legal career. The same is true for every dimension of Quinnipiac Law, from coursework to externships to bar prep. Because to practice law, you first have to practice.

When you're guided by big questions, you uncover meaningful insights.

Our educational philosophy is simple: What you know matters, but how you apply that knowledge matters even more. By combining theory with practical application, we ensure students have the opportunity to put what they learn in the classroom to the test in real-world scenarios. We develop practice-ready lawyers who make a meaningful impact in the workplace on their first day. Educating the whole lawyer means both preparing you with foundational skills and inspiring you to deploy those abilities in any legal future you desire.

DIVE DEEP

law.qu.edu/programs

We offer 5 dual-degree programs and 8 legal specialties. See the full program list on our inside back cover or online.

What can you study?

Our curriculum is expansive. Outside of traditional areas such as employment and criminal law, we have courses in areas you may not have considered, and we continually evolve our offerings. The law, after all, is ever-changing.

Visual Persuasion

A picture is worth a thousand words. Learn how visual aids, like art, advertisements, and dioramas can support persuasive case-making.

Video Game Law

Video games constitute one of the fastest-growing media industries in the past few decades. This course covers legal concepts in the fields of video game development, publishing, esports, and streaming.

Space Law

What are the regulations concerning space debris? How do we determine the governance of extraterrestrial colonies? As humanity extends our reach to the stars, we encounter new legal frontiers.

Street Law

Bring the law to life in the community. Study core civil rights principles while teaching engaging lessons in local high schools, building skills in advocacy, communication, and legal education.

Quinnipiac Law hosted a historic visit from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, giving students a rare, firsthand look at appellate advocacy and a chance to engage in Q&A with both litigants and the court.

Millie VandenBroek, associate dean of career development, meets with a student in the library.

Your path from 1L to licensed attorney — built in.

At Quinnipiac Law, preparation for practice starts on day one. Our three-part Bridge to Practice program uniquely connects classroom learning with real-world legal experience, professional development, and bar preparation that continues beyond graduation.

BRIDGE I

Foundations

Build the skills that define a legal professional. From your very first class, you will develop legal research abilities, professional identity, and the academic foundation to thrive in law school and beyond.

1L YEAR

BRIDGE II

Applied Learning and Bar Preparation

Put your education to work. At least six credits of hands-on legal experience, combined with focused coursework, deepen your readiness for practice and lay the groundwork for bar success.

2L - 3L YEARS

BRIDGE III

Post-Graduate Success

Cross the finish line with confidence. After graduation, we provide access to bar review resources, structured study environments, wellness support, and simulated testing, so you are prepared for the bar and ready to practice.

BEYOND GRADUATION

Bar preparation is not an add-on. It's built in.

With personalized resources and continued support after graduation, Quinnipiac Law embeds bar preparation throughout the curriculum and beyond, so you can approach the bar exam with confidence, clarity, and a strategic edge.

A young man with light brown hair, wearing a dark blue suit jacket, a light blue shirt, and a blue and yellow striped tie, is shown in profile, looking towards the left. He is seated at a wooden bench, likely in a courtroom or trial practice room. Large, white, serif text is overlaid on the image, reading "Q: When can".

Q: When can

ABA Representative Kevin O'Sullivan '27 and Student Bar Association President Mia Adduci '27 present their case in the trial practice room.

I get started?

A: Sooner than you think.

Your legal journey begins the moment you walk through our doors. Professional preparation is built into every step of your law school experience. After all, your success as a lawyer and community member depends on your effectiveness in professional settings. Every Quinnipiac Law student is guaranteed participation in at least one of our clinics or externships. And thanks to Connecticut's student-practice rule, you can represent clients as early as the summer after your 1L year. So, are you ready to take the first step toward becoming the lawyer you are meant to be?

PRACTICE, PRACTICE, PRACTICE

Practical experiences will help you build your skills, enhance your confidence and adaptability, and find your calling within the law.

Alice Rosenthal, assistant dean of experiential education, speaks with law students in the law clinic.

Clinics and Externships

Clinics and externships are where classroom learning meets real-world impact. You will work under the mentorship of a law professor or practicing lawyer and contribute meaningfully to actual legal cases with real clients, real judges, and real stakes.

At Quinnipiac Law, every student is guaranteed the opportunity to participate in a clinic or externship, and most students elect to take more than one. Whether you are drafting a criminal appeal, litigating a housing dispute, mediating a family law matter, or something else entirely, these experiences will build your skills, strengthen your confidence, and help you discover your place in the legal profession.

15

Clinic practice areas, including mediation, immigration, housing, tax, and criminal law.

48,000

Pro bono hours of direct legal services provided by our clinics over the last three years.

350+

Externship field sites to choose from across all sectors—government, judicial, nonprofit legal services, private practice, and corporate counsel.

At Quinnipiac, students do not just study the law—they use it to make a difference. Through clinics and externships, you will tackle real legal challenges in areas like criminal justice, tax advocacy, and immigration law.

Real-World Advocacy in Action

At a United States Tax Court calendar call in Hartford, Tax Clinic Director Sara Spodick and students Pierce Gallagher '27 and Makenzee Montanaro '27 engaged in settlement negotiations between taxpayers and the IRS. With more than 100 cases on the docket, students gained firsthand insight into how federal tax disputes are resolved.

Impact In Action

Here is a snapshot of some of the ways that our students have made a difference:

Immigration After a trial in immigration court, clinic students won a grant of gender-based asylum for a Salvadoran woman and her teenaged son whose case had been pending for 8 years. Students then obtained legal status for her husband, who had lived here for almost 25 years.

Privacy One student was integrally involved with a multistate project coordinating privacy laws, assuring that new and upcoming “connected cars” are not inadvertently exposing customers to privacy concerns.

Prosecution Students with the Prosecution Appellate Clinic argued before the Connecticut Supreme Court in a prominent murder case. The issue on appeal was whether the Supreme Court should adopt a rule that police must allow a minor to meet privately with a parent or guardian before interrogating that minor.

Family Law During an externship with Lawyers for Children America, a student participated in home visits, investigations, and various hearings to ensure children’s needs were best represented. This included attempting to reunite children with their parents or finding safer living arrangements.

Cold Cases Externs at the Cold Case Unit of the State’s Attorney’s Office examined witnesses at trial and functioned as a key part of the trial team on a case of first impression in Connecticut. They used genealogy DNA evidence to identify and convict a defendant of a series of sexual assaults committed in the 1980s.

“I work as a medical malpractice paralegal while attending Quinnipiac Law. Seeing how medical negligence profoundly affects patients and their families has strengthened my commitment to earning my JD and pursuing a legal career where I can make a meaningful difference.”

Rebeca Serrano '27

Q: Who will

Mark Schroeder, associate dean for academic affairs, meets with students outside on the Quinnipiac Law patio.

have my back?

A: Everyone.

Support at Quinnipiac Law begins before your first class. From students and faculty to alumni, you will be surrounded by people who are invested in your success. These relationships form the foundation of our close-knit community, and often evolve into lifelong professional connections.

Our students don't compete with each other—unless you're talking about a friendly game of chess in the student lounge or ping pong in the cafeteria.

Your law school classmates will come from across the country; together, you will build a unique community in North Haven, where you will support, uplift, and challenge one another. Ultimately, the bonds forged here at Quinnipiac Law will continue throughout your career, as your classmates become colleagues and lifelong professional connections.

Day One Mentoring

Long before you open your first casebook, you will form relationships that matter. Incoming students are paired with a 2L or 3L mentor during the summer before their 1L year, and have the option to be matched with faculty and alumni mentors. These supportive relationships often extend well beyond your first year and may even inspire you to pay it forward by mentoring future students yourself.

Work, Meet Life

At Quinnipiac Law, you will find plenty of ways to balance coursework with community. Cheer on the Bobcats, our Division I national champion hockey team, during the Law School's Rink Takeover at M&T Bank Arena. Participate in our annual Public Interest Law Project (PILP) Auction and help raise money for pro bono internship placements. Show off your creativity—and your sewing skills—during the Halloween Costume Contest. Join one (or more) of the 30+ student organizations on campus. At Quinnipiac, we believe that balance isn't just possible; it is essential to becoming a whole lawyer.

Care for a slice?

Throughout the semester, Dean Brian Gallini hosts pizza nights and donut breakfasts in the Jennifer Gerarda Brown Student Lounge, where students gather to connect with each other and their professors. Topics of conversation can range from this week's Criminal Procedure reading assignment to everyone's favorite movie.

“The camaraderie and sense of community at Quinnipiac Law were key factors in my decision to attend. From the moment I stepped on campus, I was welcomed by faculty, staff, and students with open arms. I look forward to attending class each day and know I can rely on professors and classmates for support and guidance as I navigate my legal journey.”

Sophia M. Iacovelli '28

Brendan Holt, director of the mediation clinic, coaches members of the Society for Dispute Resolution.

Accomplished legal minds will make your success their mission.

Our faculty are not only accomplished scholars and seasoned practitioners; they are also dedicated mentors who are invested in your growth. In small, discussion-based classes, your professors will get to know you: your values, your goals, and your voice. They'll share their own experiences and insights, helping you build legal knowledge, develop a thoughtful professional mindset, and navigate the legal world with confidence.

Professor of Law and Medical Sciences Jennifer
Herbst advises a law student in the ceremonial courtroom.

5:1 student-to-faculty ratio

A Community from Day One

Dean Brian Gallini kicks off orientation with a selfie alongside the incoming 1L class. At Quinnipiac Law, students are supported by a close-knit community of faculty and administrators committed to their success.

“Professor Kenter is one of the most exceptional teachers and mentors I’ve ever had. She fosters creativity in her students and makes a lasting impact, both on the class as a whole, and on each individual. She gives students the chance to step into the role of an attorney on either side of a case, helping them deeply understand the arguments, the judge’s reasoning, and the outcome.”

Victoria R. Caputo '27

Professor Jennifer Kenter

In Their Own Words

The depth of expertise, experience, and passion each faculty member brings to Quinnipiac Law is exceptional and not easily summarized. To capture their impact, we asked those who know them best—our students—to share their perspectives.

“Professor Unger’s presence and intellect stand out immediately at Quinnipiac Law. He explains complex material clearly, helping students understand not just the law, but how to think through legal problems. He also guides students beyond the classroom, supporting their long-term success, from practical legal reasoning to bar exam preparation.”

Alec Carlson '28

Professor Wayne Unger

“Professor Fernández is committed to empowering students. His optimism and tenacity are infectious, and he always finds a way of injecting encouragement into any interaction. In the classroom, he challenges us to think critically about the law and its real-world impact, and as a mentor, he encourages us to believe in ourselves. I always know he’s in my corner.”

Brianna Elise Martin '28

Professor Chester Fernández

Professor Marilyn Ford

“Professor Ford’s experience truly shapes the way she teaches. She often draws on stories from her career to connect the material to real-world practice, making complex legal concepts engaging and accessible. Just as important, she creates a classroom where students feel respected and encouraged to share their ideas. Her dedication extends beyond the classroom—she is always willing to help students better understand the material and navigate law school.”

Jason Rabkin '27

“Professor Feigenson brings passion, humor, and genuine care to every class session and one-on-one meeting. He holds students to a high standard but provides all the support and assistance needed to help them meet that standard. I’m so proud of the work I did in his class—it was more in-depth and complex than I knew I was capable of.”

Sarah Hansen '28

Professor Neal Feigenson

Q: Is QU

Sofia Milevski '27, co-president of the Business Law Society, Student Bar Association senator, and Human Trafficking Prevention Project Trainer, participates in a Bridge to Practice workshop.

Law for me?

A: Only you can decide.
But here are a few questions worth asking yourself:

Are you seeking a rigorous, practice-focused legal education? Do you want to be part of a dynamic, supportive community? Are you drawn to a location that offers both vibrant city life and natural beauty? Are you ready to join a global network of lawyers, lawmakers, and leaders? If so, we would be proud to welcome you to Quinnipiac Law.

WELCOME HOME

Without question, you'll find what you need to succeed on our campus.

Forget the image of dimly lit libraries and endless casebooks. At Quinnipiac, we have created a space where students feel at home—supported, inspired, and connected. Our light-filled library atrium serves as a study space and social hub; the tree-lined pond in our backyard provides a restorative connection to nature and the outdoors.

150

Acres to explore, including a 1-mile walking path and outdoor patios overlooking serene ponds at the center of our campus.

#7

The School of Law building is ranked No. 7 in Best Law School Buildings by the National Jurist preLaw Magazine.

21

Adirondack chairs for outdoor study or birdwatching.

A Tale of Two Havens
North Haven offers tranquility and charm, while nearby New Haven delivers world-class food, culture, and energy—just minutes away.

Pop in whenever.

Our facilities are designed to serve our students' full range of learning styles and needs, including our evening students who may need late-night access. Debate a case study with your friends in the cafeteria. Tuck yourself in the silent section of the library to concentrate before a test. Reserve a private space to prepare opening remarks for Mock Trial with a classmate. Record a practice deposition in our technology-enabled classrooms and watch it back from multiple angles. Whether you are prepping for trial or taking a moment to recharge, our campus is designed to support every part of your law school journey.

What makes a nutmeg grow?

Every law student needs space to grow and the Nutmeg State offers plenty of room to breathe, reflect, and explore. Connecticut boasts 110 state parks and 32 state forests where you can engage in all types of outdoor recreation, from hiking and biking to kayaking and canoeing.

What's beyond the horizon?

With our campus as a home base, you have access to a wealth of opportunities to travel, explore, and expand your personal and professional networks. New Haven, our neighbor to the south, is a popular destination to meet up with friends for coffee or a bite to eat. Hartford, Connecticut's capital, is only 30 minutes to our north. Students interested in public policy or government often complete externships there. We also sit at a central location between New York and Boston, two cities with expansive legal histories, communities, and opportunities.

Our international programs build cross-cultural fluency and legal insight. From studying at Trinity College Dublin to engaging in service-learning in Guatemala, you will gain a global perspective on justice and return with a richer understanding of how law shapes and is shaped by society around the world.

Boston and New York are about two hours away by train or car.

For longer trips, Tweed New Haven Airport is just 15 minutes from campus and Bradley International Airport is 45 minutes away.

We are just 10 minutes from New Haven, the pizza capital of the United States.

Live Here

Study Here

There are more than 30 student-led organizations on campus.

Access all the resources of Quinnipiac University's campuses, including our 60,000-square-foot Recreation and Wellness Center.

Law students can build practical skills on three competition teams and contribute to legal scholarship through three student-edited law journals.

We offer more than 350 externship placements with locations regionally and beyond.

Students have traveled to places like Ireland and Guatemala to explore other legal systems, putting classroom theory into a global context.

Quinnipiac Law is among the few law schools that attend the World Summit of Nobel Peace Laureates.

Travel Here

Discover the lawyer you can be and the difference you can make.

Jillian Collins '27

From her first visit to campus, Jillian Collins '27, an international competitive Irish dancer, knew Quinnipiac Law stood out. “The moment I stepped foot on campus for my first prospective student visit, there was always someone in my corner, providing support and cheering me on,” she said.

At Quinnipiac, Jillian has found opportunities to connect classroom learning with real-world skills. Through the Society for Dispute Resolution (SDR), she developed confidence in negotiation and advocacy—first competing during her 1L fall and now coaching fellow students. “Being part of SDR has shown me that I can learn, perform, achieve, and support others.”

Jillian credits mentorship with shaping her experience. “Professor Cooper has been an incredible mentor in helping me navigate transactional practice.”

“The Quinnipiac Law community subsists upon connection. The willingness of faculty and administration to engage with students makes forging relationships a prerequisite to success.”

Isaiah Chavez '27

A lifelong Texan, Isaiah Chavez had minimal familiarity with the Northeast. Visiting Quinnipiac School of Law was eye-opening; he recommends anyone who is considering the school do the same. "I remember calling my family from the airport after the visit and telling them that I wanted to come here no matter what. Every school claims they have a great community, but it truly felt like a family at Quinnipiac." During his 1L year, he discovered an interest in transactional law to complement his existing passion for civil rights, which is part of why he also advocates taking reasonable risks and putting yourself out there. "Take it from me as someone coming from out of state, as someone from a minority background, as a first-generation law student: There are times when you need to forget the imposter syndrome and take a leap of faith," he said. "If you never take that leap, you will never really know what opportunities are out there for you and what you can amount to."

“As an administrative assistant in the juvenile court, I had the pleasure of working with Quinnipiac alumni before I decided to apply to the law school. They were always respectful, courteous, and well-prepared—attributes that I have come to associate with the whole lawyer. I hope to be a courtroom litigator, and to be that kind of lawyer: Someone who not only has the ability to write the motions and do the research but also builds a genuine relationship with their client.”

Deja Seawright '27

Realizing Your Potential

Ask anyone what distinguishes Quinnipiac Law, and you will likely hear the same answer: the people. So, look to your left. Look to your right. These will be your friends and collaborators, who will stick by your side during law school and beyond as you grow as a legal practitioner and chart your own course for success.

“Dean Gallini makes such an effort to connect with students, and I really appreciate how he listens thoughtfully to our questions and concerns. He took the time to give me excellent advice on how I should spend my summer between 1L and 2L, which was incredibly helpful. But everyone here is a friendly face. You’ll never fall through the cracks, because there are so many resources to help you succeed.”

Maximus J. Bean '27

“From my first visit to Quinnipiac Law, I felt seen as a person, not just an applicant. That sense of belonging has grown throughout my IL year. The career development office helped me refine my résumé, prepare for interviews, and connected me with a District Court judge, where I now intern. As a queer student, that support has meant even more; faculty and staff make it clear I am valued for both my ambitions and who I am.”

Caroline Sullivan '28

“As an international student, I have been made to feel incredibly welcome. Despite being so far from home, I instantly felt part of this special community. The career development office has greatly supported me in navigating potential avenues for experiential learning as a non-domestic law student. What initially felt daunting quickly became manageable in such a nurturing environment.”

Ben Grainger '28

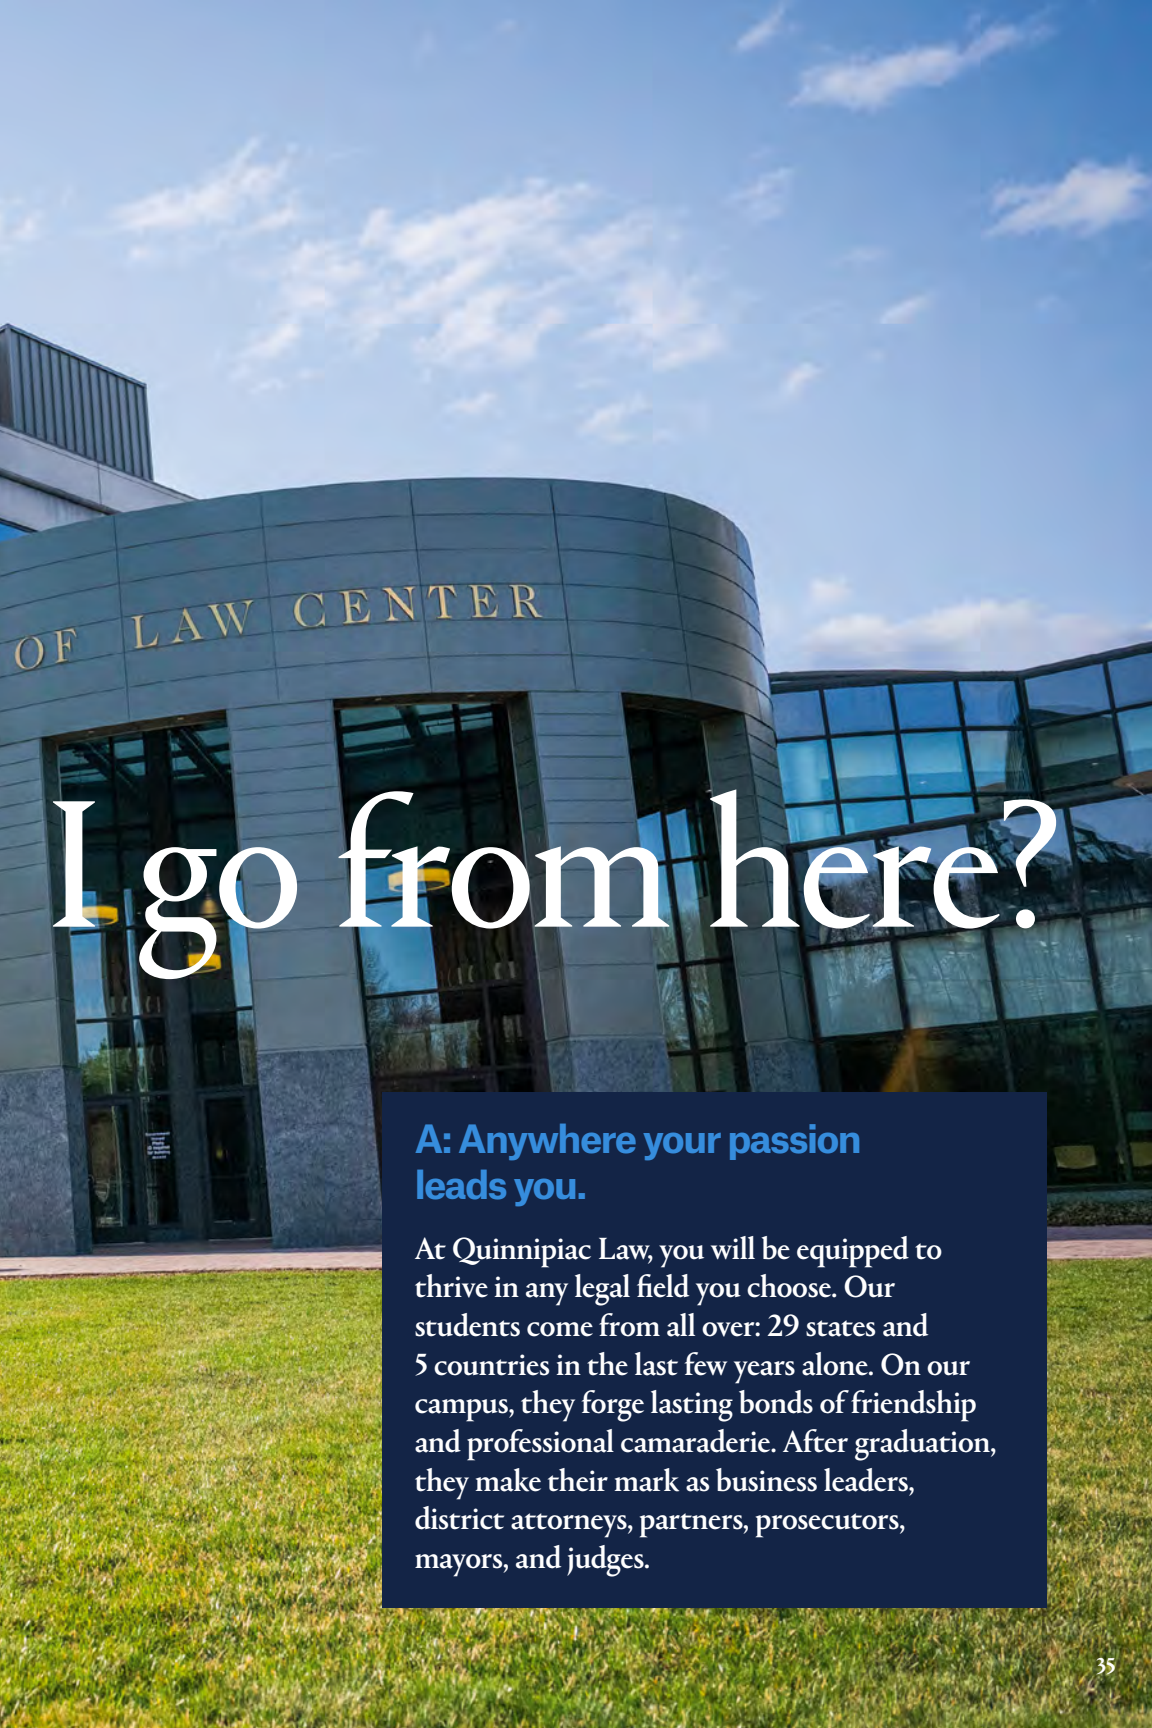

“When I was expecting my first daughter, I was accepted into Quinnipiac. I was determined to not pause my dream of going to law school and wanted to be an example to my daughter that you can achieve anything if you really want it. While I toured Quinnipiac, I knew I belonged here. Law school is competitive in nature, but Quinnipiac is a community that wants to see you succeed. The faculty not only challenge you academically but also help you grow professionally as a future lawyer.”

Maribel Ramirez Pikul '29

Q: Where can

OF LAW CENTER

I go from here?

A: Anywhere your passion leads you.

At Quinnipiac Law, you will be equipped to thrive in any legal field you choose. Our students come from all over: 29 states and 5 countries in the last few years alone. On our campus, they forge lasting bonds of friendship and professional camaraderie. After graduation, they make their mark as business leaders, district attorneys, partners, prosecutors, mayors, and judges.

Make your mark as part of a global network.

You can find Quinnipiac Law graduates in 49 states, 8 countries, and just about every legal profession under the sun. Equipped with a strong foundation in legal theory and hands-on experience, they are ready to make an immediate impact as attorneys, entrepreneurs, civil servants, and more.

Prepare for the road ahead.

Every Quinnipiac Law student is supported by our dedicated career development team. We offer personalized coaching, skills training, and network-building opportunities that you can take advantage of throughout your time in law school, and even after graduation. Our alumni maintain lifelong ties to Quinnipiac Law and to each other, offering mentorship, support, and career connections.

In addition to working closely with students to understand their needs and chart their path, we cultivate strong relationships with law firms, corporate legal departments, government agencies, and nonprofits. This ensures that our students have access to leaders in the fields they wish to pursue and often results in valuable relationships that support their professional growth.

94%

Percentage of graduates of the Class of 2025 in the job market employed by April 1, 2026.*

*Comprehensive employment outcomes for the Class of 2025 can be found at qu.edu/law/abaemployment

Brett Andrus '15
Assistant Attorney General
Utah Attorney General's Office
Salt Lake City, UT

Lexie Farkash '22
Deputy Public Defender
Colorado State Public Defenders
Montrose, CO

Kajal Patel '22
Vice President and Trust Officer
The Goldman Sachs Trust Company
New York, NY

Lisa DeCrescente '18
Intellectual Property Counsel
Revvity
Waltham, MA

Melanie Wheeler '15
Assistant Director, Office of Security-Based Swaps
U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission
Chicago, IL

Jonathan Fisher '15
Founder
Fisher Legal Arts
Los Angeles, CA

Diana Lamb '21
Deputy County Counsel
County of Orange
Orange County, CA

Alyson Ryan (Bisceglia) '16
Managing Attorney
Nebraska Legal Group
Lincoln, NE

Shannon Palm '22
Area Defense Counsel,
District 1
U.S. Air Force JAG
Shaw AFB, SC

Christopher Kuzia '20
Staff Counsel
Liberty Mutual Insurance
Tempe, AZ

Sarah Ryan '17
Associate Professor
University of North Texas
Denton, TX

Brad Davis '17
Senior Privacy Counsel
VeraSafe
Cape Coral, FL

“There’s no single blueprint for success in this profession. During my time at Quinnipiac Law, I learned that who I am as a lawyer is deeply connected to who I am as a person. The hands-on opportunities pushed me out of my comfort zone and allowed me to learn by doing—working on real cases with real clients in the clinics and applying what I learned in the classroom in real time.”

Heather Mansfield '25

Law Clerk, Connecticut Supreme Court

Trailblazers. Motivators. Cheerleaders. Colleagues.

The thousands of Quinnipiac Law alumni who have come before you illuminate the many paths you may choose to follow. Their stories are unique, but they are universally impressive. When you graduate, they will become invaluable members of your professional community—and you will find them everywhere.

“My externship in bankruptcy court clarified that this is an area of the law I could really see myself in. Bankruptcy is highly code-driven. It’s like one giant puzzle, and the judges and clerks I worked with took so much time to make sure I learned how it all fits together, which I know will serve me well in my career.”

Jacob Somerville '25

Judicial Law Clerk
Court of Common Pleas
State of Delaware

“As Mayor of Hartford, I often reflect on how my Quinnipiac education shaped my career, from the foundational legal training that honed my critical thinking and ethical reasoning to the invaluable connections within the Quinnipiac community that laid the groundwork for countless professional opportunities. The collaborative spirit fostered there, particularly through experiences like serving as Student Bar Association president, provided a crucial training ground for leadership and navigating complex issues in public service.”

Arunan Arulampalam '14

Mayor of Hartford, CT
Connecticut State Capital

“At Quinnipiac, I learned to trust myself. I’d advise law students to be intentional and bold. Don’t shrink yourself. Show up as you are and trust that you belong. Say yes to opportunities, even if they make you nervous, and don’t be afraid to shoot your shot. But also, give yourself grace. Law school is tough, but perfection isn’t the goal—progress is. Just keep showing up.”

Fontaine Chambers '24

Privacy Manager, Americas
RX Global

Great lawyers have questions. So ask us anything.

Admissions Information

Applicants aspiring to join our community must have earned a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university (or foreign equivalent) and have completed the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) and writing sample. While past academic performance and LSAT scores are important aspects of an application, we also consider additional factors including (but not limited to): letters of recommendation; the clarity and quality of writing (throughout the entire application); advanced degrees; employment history; commitment to community service; experience navigating social, educational, physical, or economic challenges; moral character; academic growth and improving grades; rigor of undergraduate curriculum; extracurricular activities; distinctions/honors achieved; and life experience.

Quinnipiac Law accepts applications up until August 1. We encourage applicants to apply as early as possible and suggest applications be submitted by early March for optimal fall admission and scholarship consideration.

We offer fall enrollment for both our Full-Time Day program and our 3-Year Evening program. The full-time program provides a traditional daytime law school experience, while the evening program offers a structured curriculum with predictable scheduling, a thoughtful blend of on-campus and online coursework, integrated bar preparation, and a clear path from enrollment to licensure.

Learn more or apply online:

Office of Admissions

203-582-3400

law@qu.edu

law.qu.edu/admissions

Financial Aid & Scholarships

Tuition varies by program. For current tuition rates and program-specific details, visit law.qu.edu/financialaid. Beyond tuition, students should plan for additional expenses such as housing, food, transportation, and books. Financial assistance, including federal and private loans, scholarships, and Federal Work-Study, is available to help offset these costs, and approximately 97 percent of enrolled students currently receive funding through these sources.

Dean's Fellows

Application deadline: February 1.

Full-tuition scholarships.

$500 book award each semester totaling $3,000.

Opportunity for work as a faculty research assistant.

Special networking opportunities.

Merit Scholarships

Applicants are automatically considered for various merit-based scholarships during the admissions process.

Awards range from $5,000 to $55,000.

Financial Aid

Complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

Our FAFSA federal school code is: 001402.

Learn More

law.qu.edu/scholarships

law.qu.edu/financialaid

203-582-3405

Visit law.qu.edu to learn more about campus visits and prospective student events, including virtual information sessions.

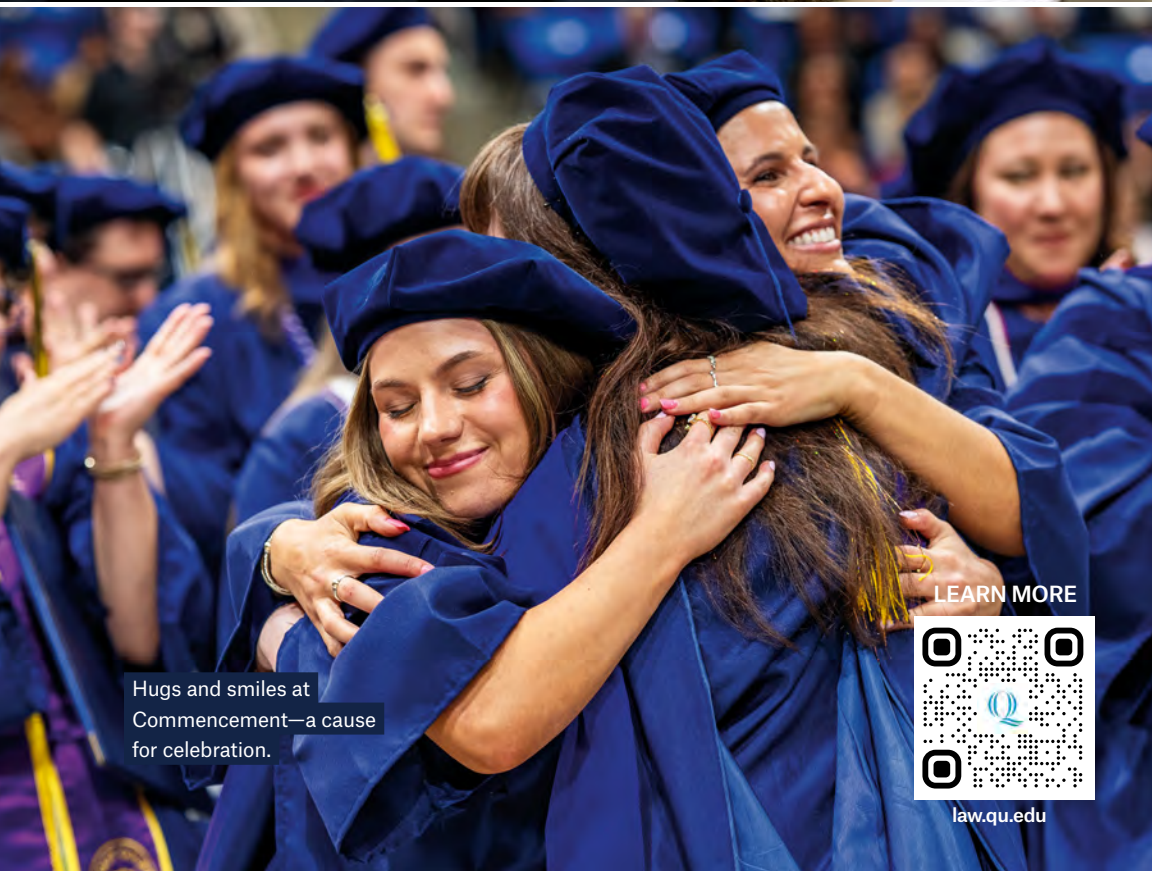

Accreditations

American Bar Association

Member of the Association of American Law Schools

Quinnipiac University School of Law is approved by the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association, 321 North Clark Street, Chicago, IL 60654, 312-988-6738

Quinnipiac does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, gender identity or expression, age, sexual orientation, national and ethnic origin, or disability status in the administration of its educational and admissions policies, employment policies, scholarship and loan programs, athletic programs or other university-administered programs.

Hugs and smiles at Commencement—a cause for celebration.

LEARN MORE

law.qu.edu

Great lawyers have questions. So ask us anything.

Admissions Information

Applicants aspiring to join our community must have earned a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university (or foreign equivalent) and have completed the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) and writing sample. While past academic performance and LSAT scores are important aspects of an application, we also consider additional factors including (but not limited to): letters of recommendation; the clarity and quality of writing (throughout the entire application); advanced degrees; employment history; commitment to community service; experience navigating social, educational, physical, or economic challenges; moral character; academic growth and improving grades; rigor of undergraduate curriculum; extracurricular activities; distinctions/honors achieved; and life experience.

Quinnipiac Law accepts applications up until August 1. We encourage applicants to apply as early as possible and suggest applications be submitted by early March for optimal fall admission and scholarship consideration.

We offer fall enrollment for both our Full-Time Day program and our 3-Year Evening program. The full-time program provides a traditional daytime law school experience, while the evening program offers a structured curriculum with predictable scheduling, a thoughtful blend of on-campus and online coursework, integrated bar preparation, and a clear path from enrollment to licensure.

Learn more or apply online:

Office of Admissions
203-582-3400
law@qu.edu
law.qu.edu/admissions

Financial Aid & Scholarships

Tuition varies by program. For current tuition rates and program-specific details, visit law.qu.edu/financialaid. Beyond tuition, students should plan for additional expenses such as housing, food, transportation, and books. Financial assistance, including federal and private loans, scholarships, and Federal Work-Study, is available to help offset these costs, and approximately 97 percent of enrolled students currently receive funding through these sources.

Dean's Fellows

Application deadline: February 1.

Full-tuition scholarships.

$500 book award each semester totaling $3,000.

Opportunity for work as a faculty research assistant.

Special networking opportunities.

Merit Scholarships

Applicants are automatically considered for various merit-based scholarships during the admissions process.

Awards range from $5,000 to $55,000.

Financial Aid

Complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

Our FAFSA federal school code is: 001402.

Learn More

law.qu.edu/scholarships
law.qu.edu/financialaid
203-582-3405

Visit law.qu.edu to learn more about campus visits and prospective student events, including virtual information sessions.

Accreditations

American Bar Association
Member of the Association of American Law Schools

Quinnipiac University School of Law is approved by the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association, 321 North Clark Street, Chicago, IL 60654, 312-988-6738

Quinnipiac does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, gender identity or expression, age, sexual orientation, national and ethnic origin, or disability status in the administration of its educational and admissions policies, employment policies, scholarship and loan programs, athletic programs or other university-administered programs.

Our campus is a state-of-the-art center for study and collaboration—equipped to support your growth as a professional and designed to inspire you on that journey. The School of Law is located on the university’s dynamic North Haven Campus, also home to the Frank H. Netter MD School of Medicine and graduate programs from a variety of disciplines. The campus is about two hours from New York City and Boston, and 10 minutes from the cultural and entertainment attractions of New Haven.

Programs

Full-Time Day JD
3-Year Evening JD

Dual Degrees and Certificate Programs

JD/Certificate in Tax Law
JD/MBA (Master of Business Administration) JD/MCEP (Master of Climate and Environmental Policy)
JD/MERL (Master of Energy Regulation and Law)
JD/MPP (Master of Public Policy)
JD/MSW (Master of Social Work)

Specialties*

Civil Advocacy & Dispute
Resolution
Criminal Law & Advocacy
Cybersecurity & Information
Privacy
Family Law
Health Law
Intellectual Property
Tax Law
Workplace Law

Study Abroad*

Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland

Journals

Quinnipiac Law Review
Quinnipiac Health Law Journal
Quinnipiac Probate Law Journal

Competition Teams

Mock Trial Society
Moor Court Society
Society for Dispute Resolution

These offerings are designed for students in the Full-Time Day program. The 3-Year Evening program follows its own focused, prescribed course of study.*

With Vermont Law & Graduate School*

Externships

Business
Corporate Counsel
Criminal Justice
Employment & Labor
Environmental & Energy
Family & Juvenile
Health
Immigration
Intellectual Property Judicial
Legal Services
Legislative Mediation
Private Practice
Probate
Public Interest
Sports & Entertainment
Tax
Transactional

Clinic Practice Areas

Advocacy for Survivors of Domestic Violence, Trafficking & Other Trauma
Constitutional Law
Criminal Defense Appellate
Practice
Criminal Prosecution Appellate
Practice
Employment Law
Family Law
Housing Law & Justice
Human Trafficking Prevention
Project
Immigrants’ Rights Policy
Immigration & Refugee Law
Mediation
Special Education Advocacy
Tax
Transgender Rights
Women’s Rights

Student Organizations

American Constitution Society
Asian Pacific American Law
Students Association
Black Law Students Association
Business Law Society
Cannabis Law Society
Christian Legal Fellowship
Criminal Law Society
Education Law Society
Environmental Law Society
Family and Juvenile Law Society
Federalist Society
Health Law Society
Human Trafficking Prevention
Project
Intellectual Property Law Society
International Human Rights
Law Society
Italian American Law Students
Association
Jewish Law Students Association
Latinx Law Students Association
Military Law Society
Muslim Law Students Association
OutLaws (LGBTQIA+ and allies)
Phi Alpha Delta Legal Fraternity
Public Interest Law Project
QU Law Soccer
QU Law Volleyball
Sports and Entertainment
Law Society
Student Bar Association
Tax Law Society
Trivia Club
Women’s Law Society

On the cover: 2Ls Paul Dunford, Brianna Martin, and Katherine Roessel stand confidently in the law library.

157 Median
LSAT

3.68 Median
GPA

143

Total number of first-year students enrolled

24% First-generation
students

22% LGBTQIA+
students
(Self-identified)

24 Average
Age

24% Students
of color

416
Total JD
students

5:1

Student-to-faculty ratio

Small class sizes and accessible faculty enhance classroom discussions and encourage the sharing of diverse perspectives.

350+

Externship locations where students gain real-world experience working with attorneys in government, judicial, nonprofit legal services, private practice, and corporate counsel.

90%

Percentage of the class of 2026 that participated in our guaranteed clinic and externship experiences.

94%

Percentage of 2025
graduates in the job market employed by April 1, 2026.

Employment by Industry

- Law Firms
- Business or Industry
- Government
- Clerkship
- Public Interest
- Education

Comprehensive employment outcomes for the Quinnipiac Law Class of 2025 can be found at qu.edu/law/abaemployment

Data accurate as of August 12, 2026

Just the Facts

- 1 First things first: it is pronounced “kwi-nuh-pee-ak.”
- 2 Quinnipiac University is home to game-changing lawyers and NCAA Division I national hockey champions. Our students and alumni gather at M&T Bank Arena to cheer on the Bobcats when the puck drops.
- 3 Our North Haven Campus spans 150 scenic acres, and it is often named a favorite part of the Quinnipiac experience.
- 4 With 450,000 volumes and access to the New England Law Library Consortium (NELLCO), the Lynne L. Pantalena Law Library connects students to legal resources across the region and the world.
- 5 Nearly 100 book-shaped sconces light our halls, each inscribed with a quote about the law. One favorite: “The important thing is not to stop questioning.” —Albert Einstein
- 6 We proudly display “Women in Black,” a portrait collection of 76 female judges in Connecticut, photographed by Isabel Chenoweth. Among the portraits are an impressive 9 faculty members and 14 alumni—each a powerful example of Quinnipiac Law’s legacy in the Connecticut judiciary!

EDUCATING THE WHOLE LAWYER

Physical Location

North Haven Campus
370 Bassett Road
North Haven, CT 06473-4201

Mailing Address

275 Mount Carmel Avenue
Hamden, CT 06518-1908

203-582-3400 / law@qu.edu

LEARN MORE

law.qu.edu

